HIGHLIGHTS

CITR PRIDE PARADE FLOAT

Duncan McHugh

CiTR's Pride Parade float was a combination effort with Mint Records, and Tyler and Cam from Radio Zero spinning tunes between sets by Fine Mist.

CiTR received its first Community Radio Fund of Canada grant to hire a live broadcasting coordinator to run CiTR's "Summer of Live Broadcasting". Bronwen Loden came on board to organize 20 live broadcasts throughout the summer at community and campus events, such as Victory Square Bloc Party, Red Jam Slam, Under the Volcano Festival, Pride Parade, Fringe Festival, Live@Lunch and Shindig!. In addition, Bronwen produced a detailed live broadcasting manual and organized training sessions for CiTR members.

C'est Extra Vancouver! events were held throughout the year, showcasing French DJs playing a repertoire of French hits from the last 40 years. Broadcast on CiTR and MC'd by CiTR's own host of French Connection, Marie-Eve Dumulong, C'est Extra Vancouver! was a lively addition to Granville Island's Backstage Lounge.

CiTR broadcast the Live@Lunch concert series from the courtyard outside of the Student Union Building in September. Students got an earful of Teen Daze, Hidden Towers and Role Mach in the open air of the UBC campus.

CiTR DJ Bobby Badger spun tracks at the First Annual Barn Burner on January 29, 2011, a rock 'n' roll, rhythm & blues and country revue. Musical guests, spaghetti westerns, a clothing raffle by Lifetime Collective and food provided by The Whip kept the Chapel Arts space burning till the wee hours.

Vancouver institution Mint Records teamed up with CiTR for the release of the CiTR Pop Alliance Compilation Volume II on vinyl. Curated by CiTR's Duncan McHugh, the record featured some of the year's best bands from Vancouver's pop underground, many of whom played at the record release party. An excited crowd was on hand at the party to pick up vinyl copies of their own, many of which were passed around and signed by members of the bands.

In an ongoing effort to adapt to ever changing technology, CiTR began the task of converting its massive music library to digital form. The new digital library will assure the posterity of the station's valuable collection and, by making broadcasting easier and more streamlined, improve the overall quality of the station.

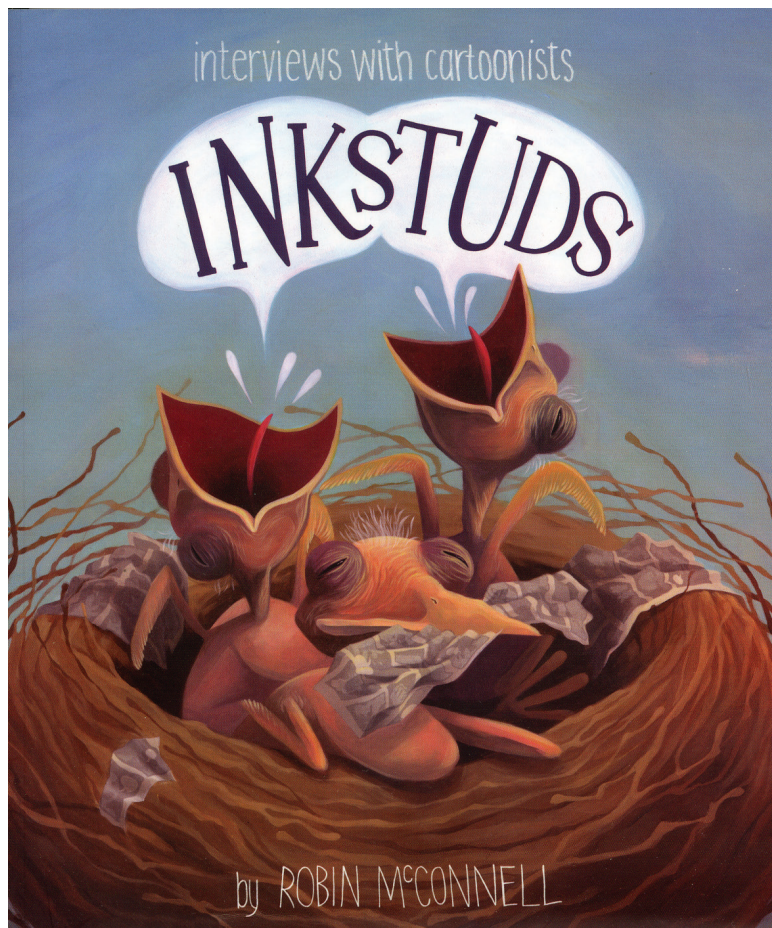

CiTR unveiled its new Ostrich logo, designed by artist Spencer Wilton.

The National Campus and Community Radio Conference was held on Gabriola Island and CiTR represented. CiTR's News Department received a NCRA National Community Radio Award for their report on the Poverty Olympics, an event to raise awareness of the social impacts of the 2010 Olympic Games.

DJ Ska-T celebrated 15 years on CiTR Radio with film screenings and a DJ set at 121 STUDIOS.

October saw the launch of Inkstuds, a print collection of thirty interviews with North American-alternative comic artists transcribed from Robin McConnell's radio show of the same name.

LAZY BEAR 24 HOUR THUNDERBIRD RADIO HELL

Steve Louie

In April, CiTR and Shindig staple Ben Lai hosted an incredible marathon of local music in the form of 24 Hours of Thunderbird Radio Hell. The halls of UBC were blown out as 26 bands in 24 hours performed live at the station, showcasing both Vancouver's amazing music scene and CiTR's commitment to local, independent music.

Discorder Magazine and Vancouver Is Awesome, a website devoted to all things awesome in Vancouver, published a split issue in December. To celebrate their awesome collaboration, a joint event was held in January at the Biltmore Cabaret featuring performances by 41st and Home, Oh No! Yoko, The Oh Wells and Facts.

In March 2011 a fundraiser was held for Discorder Magazine at the Biltmore Cabaret. The event featured an incredible line-up of local bands including Apollo Ghosts, Fine Mist, MT-40, Boogie Monster, KOBAN, fanshaw and a DJ set by the boys in Japandroids. The night proved an amazing success as Vancouver's community of CiTR and Discorder lovers came out to support the magazine.

FUNDRIVE 2010

Between November 16 – 25th, CiTR DJs took to the airwaves asking dedicated listeners to pledge their support towards our goal of $30,000. Over the ten days, we raised $30,712! to cover operating expenses, equipment purchases, and most importantly – a new digital library for the station. Thank you to Michaela Davies for this year's Fundrive design!

OWN YOUR FREQUENCY

Our Fundrive Finale was on Thursday, November 25, with local bands playing their favourite 90's throwback tunes. Bands on the bill included Hermetic, Safety Show, Fine Mist, Rick White's Hair (featuring members of Apollo Ghosts, Organ Trail and CiTR's very own Chris-a-riffic), Role Mach, Allen Forrister, Thee Manipulators, beekeeper and Leah Abramson.

AN ODE TO FUNDRIVE

AN EARNEST ODE TO FUNDRIVE: WHAT CiTR MEANS TO ME

Having done a lot of my growing up in the cultural wasteland of the suburban lower mainland, music was a pretty major outlet.

While so much of it was introduced to me by friends and by magazines, I cannot describe the power of a little gateway drug by the name of CiTR radio. I can remember the first time I came across it on the dial, over 23 years ago on a Saturday morning. Well into my thrash metal phase (as teenage boys of the mid- to-late eighties are aught to do), I flipped the dial past the classic rock of the day only to stumble upon Darkness Descends by Dark Angel, followed by a track from Anthrax's Among the Living. So stoked. In the week between the next show, I ran out to buy some Sony 90 minute cassettes so I could record the whole 3 hour program and listen to them all week. Unimaginable today.

The show, of course, was and is, Powerchord. Through this show I discovered a million bands; I discovered the joys of European imports; I discovered the tape trading circles that span across the globe; I discovered the local all-ages thrash and crossover scene. I discovered a way out of Richmond.

And in one of the nicest things that adults have ever done for me in my youth, hosts Ron and Gerald invited a friend and I out to the student union building to sit in a show. At fourteen years old, busing into UBC, I can't tell you the excitement. It was my first time on a university campus, and it made it make sense. Took a while, but it made that world—the world I still find myself in—make sense. Actually, I'm lying: the first time on a University campus was when my second grade class took a field trip to the anthropology museum and the teachers thought it would be nice to walk down to the beach afterwards for a picnic, not realizing what beach they were taking us to, but I digress....

As I hit 15/16, I started to check out new shows and new bands. Husker Du. Die Kruezen. The Asexuals, Descendents, the Doughboys The Replacements, etc, etc, etc....I remember calling in to win tickets to see Green River at the Arts Club, but chickening out to pick them up, knowing there was no way I could pass for 19.

When I moved to Calgary in the winter of '89 for a few years, the first thing I did was check out Vox Magazine and CJSW. I didn't understand school, or girls, or friendship, or how to railslide without falling on my ass, but I understood what campus radio meant.

It has been 21 years since I've lived in the lower mainland, but CiTR has remained a constant, be it through Discorder magazine, then the internet, and now podcasts.

I like having a few constants in my life. Happy to throw a couple bucks in the kitty in hopes it remains for a long, long time.
