CiTR is hiring a Technical Coordinator

CiTR 101.9 FM is the broadcasting voice of the University of British Columbia, beginning as a student club in 1937, and gaining not-for-profit status and a place on the FM dial in 1982. CiTR offers students and community members a variety of services which include broadcast and multimedia training, promotional support, live on location coverage of events and much more. Since 1983 CiTR has also published Discorder Magazine, providing unparalleled monthly coverage of Vancouver's music community, arts scene and local current affairs while providing a space for students and community members to be trained in written journalism, photography, illustration and other aspects of publishing.

The Technical Coordinator will be responsible for supporting CiTR and Discorder's technical systems and coordinating both software and hardware needs for the station.

TASKS AND RESPONSIBILITIES:

- Support the technical needs of CiTR's 90+ programmers
- Support the technical needs of live broadcasts at community events and festivals
- Maintain and improve CiTR's computer networks and systems
- Assist the Program Director in training CiTR programmers to use our systems
- Assist with the maintenance of studios and equipment
- Research the accessibility of our current software and systems
- Maintain and update CiTR's website, and troubleshoot our live streaming and podcasting services
- Maintain CiTR's computer hardware, software, networks and systems, and troubleshoot all related issues
- Strategize and research ways to improve CiTR's online delivery, analyze website traffic and brainstorm new media applications

JOB REQUIREMENTS:

The ideal candidate will be motivated, creative and efficient, with great problem solving skills. S/he will have skills and experience in computer science, computer programming, databases and web design, with an interest in broadcasting, sound equipment and new media. Proven ability to work with diverse communities of students is an asset.
