Name of creator

University of British Columbia. Radio Society

(1937-)

* See the Radio Society \(CiTR\) fonds).

Scope and content

The series contains almost all printed issues of Discorder Magazine beginning with vol 1, iss. 1 in February 1983. The magazine is the program guide for the Radio Society. It also publishes a calendar of events in the city, reviews, editorials, arts and culture pieces. Discorder Magazine's mandate is to amplify underrepresented communities and supply alternative, progressive, informative and community-oriented programming to University of British Columbia and the Greater Vancouver Community. It may be of interest to researchers studying Vancouver's music and alternative culture history, especially that of the 1980s and 1990s.

Publication trends:

1983-1998: ~12 issues per year 1999-2008: ~11 issues per year (December and January issue are combined). 2008-2018: ~10 issues per year (July and August issue are combined). 2019: 8 issues 2020: 3 issues (Including the "Lost Months" issue which combines material written during the Covid-19 lockdown). 2021-Present: 5-6 issues per year.
